SENSATIONAL OFFICIAL INDICTMENT OF N. R. A.

CHICAGO FIRE DISASTER

1,500 INJURED;
2,000 HOMELESS

WORST IN U. S. A.
SINCE 1871

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic News
Office, London, 1934. Received May
21, 1934 a.m.)

Chicago, May 20.

Chicago's hospitals are crowded with hundreds of persons injured in the most disastrous fire in Chicago's history, which raged out of control for six hours, during which it completely gutted every building over an area of a square mile.

The parks are crisscrossed with refugees from the outbreak, and the problem of finding them shelter is extremely pressing.

At the moment they are being "cooled" in the parks and the theatres, while nearby cities have offered aid.

The fire is described as the worst in the United States since 1871. It destroyed part of the elevated tramway system and completely razed the stockyards which it is believed will take years to rebuild.

35-M.P.H. GALE.

The outbreak commenced in the heart of the stockyards and spread with lightning rapidity, fanned by the 35-mile gale, leaping from the stockyards into Halsted Street and raging through the business and residential districts in that part of the city for three hours.

The flames leaped to a height of over a hundred feet, and spread three-quarters of a mile wide, and a mile long, one great blazing inferno.

CATTLE PANIC.

The firemen were hampered in combating the flames by the low pressure of the water supply and an appeal was made over the wireless to all residents of Chicago to refrain from using any water during the outbreak except where absolutely essential.

The livestock in the yards were, where possible, set loose in the streets. Many of them were already burning, carrying the flames as they ran screaming down the streets, adding to the confusion.

It is estimated that three hundred blocks have been destroyed and that the damage will amount to as high as $25,000,000.

FIREMEN BADLY HURT.

One hospital alone has treated 45 firemen, ten of whom were in a serious condition. Physicians are surprised at the small number of fatalities—believed to be three—but it is pointed out that the alarm was sounded early. All employees of the yards were able to escape and the people in the residential blocks had plenty of warning.

The blaze started at 3 p.m. and by nine p.m. had destroyed a square mile of property and was still burning, although control had been gained.

An embargo has been placed upon cattle entering Chicago.—United Press.

Reuter Story Of The Outbreak

Chicago, May 20.
Three firemen were killed and over a hundred and fifty seriously injured in the giant fire in the stockyards, which is still raging through the city. It is believed that control has been gained.

FOOT AND MOUTH DISEASE

OUTBREAK IN TAI HANG AREA

NOT THOUGHT
VERY SERIOUS

Considerable reticence is being displayed in responsible quarters with regard to an outbreak last week of foot and mouth disease in the Causeway Bay district.

It is now learned that the authorities have been cognisant of the outbreak since the middle of last week.

The affected beasts are located at Tai Hang, where there are one or two Chinese dairy farms.

As far as is known at present, the disease is confined to the above district and only a few beasts are affected. Mr. Mackenzie, the Government Veterinary Surgeon, is in charge of the cases and though he declined to make a detailed statement this morning he gave the assurance that the outbreak is not a very serious one.

CHINESE FINANCIAL REFORM

Important Conference
Begins To-day

Nanking, May 21.

The Chinese Financial Administrative Conference was inaugurated this morning at Central Government House, under the presidency of Dr. H. H. Kung, the Finance Minister.

Over 600 officials, mostly finance commissioners and high officials of various provincial governments, attended the conference.

The conference, the first of its kind, will be devoted to a discussion of ways and means to improve and regulate financial administrative systems in all provinces and to reform the age-old land taxation system.

The secretariat of the Conference has received no less than seventy-five proposals for dealing with these problems, from various provincial governments, which will be given due consideration at the Conference.—Central News.

Munich, May 20.
Sentences of eight years, five years and three years' penal servitude were to-day passed upon three residents of Kaiserlautern, who were accused of communicating to a foreign government a false order supporting the German army in the invasion of Poland from the national headquarters of the storm troops.—Reuter Special.

DARROW BOARD'S REPORT

"FAIR COMPETITION"
ILLUSORY

BOLD MONOPOLIST
PRACTICES

Washington, May 20.

Regimentation of industry for the exploitation of the workers and consumers is the net result of the operations of the N. R. A., according to Mr. Clarence Darrow, chairman of the Recovery Review Board appointed by President Roosevelt to examine N. R. A. working.

A sensation has been caused throughout the United States by the publication of the report of the Board, and considerable prominence is given in all the leading papers.

N. R. A. is alleged to work in favour of the great capitalist trusts against the interests of smaller enterprises. The steel and film industries are selected as typical examples of the domination of the larger companies.

SOCIALISATION RECOMMENDED

This grave indictment of the National Recovery Administration is contained in an eighty thousand-word Report of the National Recovery Review Board, which has been meeting under the chairmanship of Mr. Clarence Darrow, the veteran criminal lawyer, whose last great case was the honour-slaying trial in Honolulu.

The Board, it will be recalled, was established by President Roosevelt some time ago and directed to ascertain whether the N. R. A. codes tended to promote monopolies or to eliminate or oppress small enterprises.

"SAVAGE AND WOLFISH."

After investigating one hundred and thirteen complaints against eighteen of the codes, the Board finds that the phrase "fair competition" is merely resounding and illusory.

It adds: "What the powerful producer calls fair, his weaker rival fiercely denounces as most unfair."

"There is no way to reconcile the difference.

"All competition to-day is savage, wolfish and relentless and can be nothing else."

ANTI-TRUST LAWS.

The Report recommends a return to the principles of the Sherman Anti-Trust laws for the purpose of restoring the normal competition which the Board believes to be one of the great needs of the time.

The Report further maintains that price-fixing by industry and price regulation by government would involve practically the same difficulties.

MONOPOLY EVILS.

The problem of policing industry in order to prevent price competition, on which the American public has long relied to avoid the evils of monopoly in efficiency in business and high prices, would be insuperable.

In a special reference to the motion picture industry, the Report says that monopolistic practices are bold and aggressive and its smaller enterprises are cruelly oppressed.

MAJORITY REPORT.

Monopolistic conditions in the steel industry have long existed owing to the absolute control by the larger companies. This control is assured through the American Iron and Steel Institute, which is supposed to represent the large and small enterprises, but in reality, owing to the voting arrangements, the small enter-

GEN. JOHNSON ON WARPATH

Demands Abolition of Board

Washington, May 20.
General Hugh Johnson, N. R. A. Administrator, in a letter to President Roosevelt describes the Darrow Report as a superficial, intemperate and inaccurate document.

He urges the immediate abolition of the Review Board on the ground that it is of no service to anyone and "nothing but a political sounding-board."

The Board, he says, has presumed after a few hours of cavalier inquiry and prejudiced testimony, to pass judgment on codes upon which N. R. A. officials had spent weeks of inquiry and investigation.

The Board's continuance as a Government agency would enable it to promote private purposes at the public expense. The Board is clearly incapable of fulfilling its functions.—Reuter.

NEW VICTIMS OF GAS DISASTER

APPEAR WITH NEGLECTED BURNS

A NEED FOR OLD CLOTHING

Further contributions are to hand for the Telegraph's Fund on behalf of sufferers in the gasworks disaster.

The distributing centre announces that there is still much need of help. Every case handled is subjected to the closest scrutiny.

The St. John Ambulance distributing centre was kept extremely busy during the week-end, investigating requests for assistance and making grants.

A fact now disclosed for the first time is that many of the victims of the disaster who received burns did not go to hospital, but have been temporarily cared for by friends.

Several such cases presented themselves to the distributing centre yesterday, one particularly pathetic instance being that of an old man of 79 years, badly burned about the feet and face.

The only clothing he had was a borrowed suit.

One or two other cases provided evidence of neglected burns, and grants have been made in all such cases.

There is a distinct need for old clothing, which would be greatly welcomed at the Ambulance Brigade distributing centre at King's College.

The St. John Ambulance Brigade Fund has been further supplemented by another contribution of $150 from the Kung Sheung Po Fund.

FASCIST COUP IN BULGARIA

QUEER SHIFT IN ALIGNMENT

LIKELY TO BE PRO-FRENCH

Sofia, May 20.

The establishment of a virtual Nazi dictatorship, under military domination, in Bulgaria, has caused surprise throughout the greater part of Europe.

Germany is jubilant; Italy looks upon the development with suspicion.

The usual explanations are given in justification of the military coup d'etat.

Political and moral decomposition had reached alarming proportions and the country was in danger of reaching an impossible situation, declared the Prime Minister, Colonel Gheorgiev, in an interview with Reuter into tonight.

The new Government would, he said, follow the same policy as regards foreign affairs as the last.

NEW LEADER.

Colonel Gheorgiev, a fifty-two-year-old retired Army officer, was first elected a Deputy in 1923 and was Minister of Communications in an earlier government. He may be described as a not impressive man. He is stockily built and has the sight of one eye in the Great War.

The Sofia newspapers are appearing normally, but are restrained from publishing any criticism of the dictatorship.

It is reported that a decree abolishing all political parties is about to be issued.

GERMAN VIEWS.

A message from Berlin indicates that jubilation is expressed by unofficial Nazi circles at the Bulgarian developments. The coup is regarded as another sign of the need for the iron fist in modern European government.

The new Bulgarian Government is warmly welcomed in Belgrade. It is believed that one of its main tasks will be to clear up the Macedonian Terrorist Association in preparation for a Yugo-Slav-Bulgarian Alliance.

INTERESTING REPORT.

Reports that the Bulgarian Minister in Paris, who has been recalled to Sofia, will become Foreign Minister, leads to the belief that Bulgaria has been brought from the Italian to the French sphere of influence.

In Rome the coup is welcomed as another sign of the growth of Fascism. On the other hand, the rapprochement with Yugo-Slavia, bringing Bulgaria into the French sphere of influence is the cause of strong disapproval, particularly in view of the fact that the Queen of Bulgaria is a daughter of the King of Italy.

ITALY CHECKED.

The weaning of Bulgaria from Italy is a distinct check to Italian policy in the Balkans as Italy has hitherto been the champion of treaty revision in favour of Bulgaria, and has counted on Bulgaria as a potential ally.—Reuter.

A FARTHING WAR DEBT PAYMENT

PUZZLE FOR U. S.
TREASURY

A LETTER FROM PORTSMOUTH

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic News
Office, London, 1934. Received May
21, 1934 a.m.)

Washington, May 20.
A surprise greeted officials of the United States Treasury Department when they opened a letter addressed to them by Mr. Martin Finn, a resident of Portsmouth, the English naval port.

The letter contained a coin, one farthing, and was sent "on account of the British war debt."

The letter declared: "Congress says that Britain must pay and so, as a humble Briton, I am sending my bit. That's all I can spare. The sooner you realise it and the sooner you write it off the slate the better."

Treasury officials are perplexed about how they should credit the farthing.

It is not likely to be applied to the reduction of the British debt as it is not an officially sponsored payment.

It will probably be added to the Consolence Fund.—Reuter Special.

Fan Lung, a quarryman, dropped a distance of 30 feet when he slipped and fell down a quarry at Shaikwan yesterday. He was conveyed to hospital suffering from serious injuries.

LOOKS ORANGE—ACTS ROSE

Tangee contains a magic color-change principle. In the sick it looks orange, but put it on and notice how it changes on your lips to the one shade of rose most becoming to you. Thus Tangee gives lips a healthy glow of youth not an artificial, painted look. Made with a special cream base, Tangee softens and smoothes, prevents chapping. Also in Theatrical, a deeper shade for professional use.

UNTOUCHED—Lips left untouched are apt to have a faded look... make the face seem older.

PAINTED—Don't risk that faded look. It's chapping and men don't like it.

TANGE—Intensifies natural color, restores youthful appeal, ends that painted look.

NEW... Tangee Face Powder now contains the magic Tangee color-change principle. Makes your skin look younger, fresher. Prevents powdery, mask-like effect, for like Tangee Lipstick, its color matches your natural skin tones.

CONFLAGRATION
IN CHICAGOHUGE FIRE SWEEPS
STOCKYARDS

Chicago, May 20.
A fierce fire has broken out in the Chicago Union Stockyard here. The fire spread with staggering rapidity. Within an hour a square mile of the Stockyard property was blazing.

A hotel and two banks are aflame and the fire is now creeping towards the north-west residential districts.

All fire-fighting apparatus for miles around has been mobilized and pressed into service for fighting the flames.

Two fire-engines are lost in the smoke and blaze. The fate of their crews is at present unknown.

Casualties and Damage.

At present the known casualties are given as 12 injured.

Some buildings have been destroyed, and the damage already runs into many millions of dollars.

Pandemonium has broken out in the threatened area, and the police have been forced to cordon off a huge region.

The drought has caused a shortage of water and residents have formed bucket brigades to combat the flames.

Trucks in the affected district have been dislocated. The traffic tangle stretches for miles.

Telephone operators at the Stockyard exchange are heroically sticking to their posts in the foetid atmosphere and working frantically those lines which are still working.

Under Control.

There is an intense feeling of relief at the official announcement that the fire has been brought under control.

This was only accomplished after firemen had set explosives at strategic points to counteract the flames, which were fanned by the winds.

A gigantic tongue of flame leapt high in the air as ammonia tanks and oil reservoirs exploded with a roar.

The attempts to fight the blaze were complicated by the thousands of spectators who impeded the police in their effort to get near the fire.

The telephone operators at the Stockyard exchange finally forsook their posts when flames licked the switchboards of their instruments and put the cables out of action.

Cause of Outbreak.

Twenty persons are reported to have been injured and one fireman is missing. The damage is now estimated to exceed $10,000,000.

It is believed that the fire was caused by a lighted cigarette being thrown down in a hay barn.

Although the area of the conflagration was extensive, the flames have not touched the main packing plants.—Reuter.

S. WEST AFRICA

GERMAN MEMBERS NOT SATISFIED

Windhoek, May 19.
To-day the German members of the Legislative Assembly of South-west Africa walked out at the opening ceremony after submitting a memorandum that "one man government" is the only solution for the present political deadlock, and that incorporation in the Union as the fifth province is not acceptable.

The Germans' withdrawal, which will not obstruct the work of the Assembly, is a sequel to the failure at the recent conference of the South African and German sections to reach an agreement for political and economic development of the territory.

A critical situation has developed in the territory since the advent of the Nazi regime in Germany.—Reuter Special.

YOUR CHILDREN.

Contact Between Parent and Teacher

By Olive Roberts Barton

There is a certain hiatus between home and school that sets the child's mind against the latter.

It comes about this way. In his home there is obedience but it is qualified. In school there is unqualified obedience.

At home his temperament is understood and he receives toleration according to circumstances. Little forays into mischief are understood and forgiven. Lapses from responsibility are not taken too seriously as a rule and "absolute" obedience is not expected.

In school he must fit to a system, somewhat military in its nature. It must be so, I think, in spite of all attempts to perfect the "experimental" or "progressive" public school plan.

Conforming to System.

The hundreds of pupils to be handled in a building will always have to conform to some "set" system. Changes are being made and none too soon, to re-vamp the rigid exactness of the old system, but I doubt if it will ever reach the point where each child can be dealt with as an absolute individual.

Nor do I think it necessary. I believe that mass grouping and certain demands made on the child have their good points. The majority of normal children not only accept the situation, but do pretty well under it. The public school needs certain changes, in purpose, as it exists to-day, and a change in ways of grading; also in methods of approach to study. But school can never be a party. It is intended to put stern stuff in children, and too much individualism is bad for the best of us.

However, there is something wrong when the attitude of children toward school is as unfriendly as it is. I have just said that of endurance that makes the best of a bad job. It could be different and it will be, when the rapidly changing system gets to a point where the desire to learn is entrenched in the child's heart through his aroused interest. This will affect grading and placing. It will also affect the subjects studied.

A "Shuttle" That Fails.

We must get it out of our heads, however, that the perfect school will allow children to dawdle, and that no discipline will be necessary. And we must also discard the idea that our Jimmy or our Mary will one day be allowed to study ONLY the things he likes. The state will always have some-

GLORIFYING
YOURSELFTable Etiquette Begets
Charm

By Alicia Hart

A dinner table, illuminated by soft candlelight, is the perfect setting for a woman's beauty. And her beauty is doubled if she is a gracious hostess or guest.

Pleasantness at the table, health authorities tell us, makes for better digestion. And correct digestion is absolutely necessary to a flawless skin, shining hair and bright eyes. So, once again, manners and charm are, or should be, part of a woman's campaign for beauty.

Think pleasant thoughts when you eat. The dining hour is a poor time to launch on contentious subjects. Arguments have no place at the table. Save the budget wars until after dinner and lecture Johnny about his latest report card after breakfast.

Eat slowly and confine your conversation to subjects that excite neither you nor your guests. Etiquette plays an important part in your charm and beauty at the table. If you aren't quite sure of the rules of good conduct, get a reliable guide book and learn about them.

thing to say about this and it is right. School is not an indulgence.

Now we are just where we started. The home on one side, the school on the other, and the child in the middle, a shuttle that fails daily to weave them together. He goes home and is, well, say, over-indulged; he goes to school and is under-indulged. He feels that his parents have no real conception of his seven-hours-a-day away from them or the trouble he faces. It creates a pull away from the school, and there are pulls enough without that.

Encouraging Friendship.

There should be a contact point. Parent-Teachers' meetings don't do it, although they are useful, of course. The trouble is that the child himself is seldom present to get the feeling of friendship between instructor and parent. In elementary schools there should be a plan that does not interfere with the teacher's work—as daily visits do—such as an open day once a month. No programme should keep the children under a strain at the time as is too often the case.

When the parent projects personality and interest into the school building by association of ideas and a feeling that his school world is discovered, the child will overcome his feeling of segregation. He will feel that he fits. He moves his "family feeling" to school because they have contacted it.

There might be another way, but it would have to be somewhat after this plan. It would be a wonderful help to the "prejudiced" child in particular.

Married Flirts

by MABEL McELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY

GYPSEY MORELL and TOM WEAVER are married on the same day as LILA MORELL and CLYDE BLISS. Lila expects to live in luxury, but Gypsy intends to keep her job teaching in a settlement house. The first night Gypsy and Tom spend in their New York apartment VERA GLAZ, an old friend of Tom's, telephones. Tom asks her to lunch on to meet Gypsy, but Gypsy cannot leave her work to go. After a hard day she rushes home to find Tom already there. He announces that Vera is coming to call that evening.

CHAPTER IV

An affected voice rushed, "So this is Gypsy!"

The newcomer was tall—almost as tall as Tom. She was honey-blond, with elaborately lashed and mascaraed eyes. Everything about her Gypsy, quite naturally, disliked on sight. Her high-strapped, high-heeled shoes; her magpie costume of black and white, which fitted her rounded figure like the proverbial glove; her cooling accents. She even, thought Gypsy resentfully, talks babytalk. In comparison to this lush vision, Gypsy felt quite eclipsed. She was wearing, at Tom's insistence, a high necked, trousseau frock, a high necked, long sleeved affair of red crepe. It was becoming. It was smart. But beside the glowing Vera, Gypsy felt like the merest sparrow.

"And your little place—quite sweet," Vera turned a condescending gaze upon the apartment which had seemed, only last evening, rare perfection in the bride's eyes. Tonight she was conscious chiefly of its lack of no curtains, no rugs, no soft, deep chairs. Vera lolled elegantly upon the day bed, and Tom ran to fetch pillows from the bedroom to make her more comfortable. Gypsy sat upright on one of the stiff Windsor chairs, wishing she would go, wishing the night would open and swallow her. Hateful, hateful girl! Wasn't it enough that she had pre-empted Tom for luncheon that day, without having him wish upon them at night? But she was going back to Boston soon, Tom had pleaded; she had so wanted to meet his wife.

"Yes, she does," Gypsy had said, lightly and humorously. "Honestly, darling," Tom had been hurt, bewildered by the frigidity in the atmosphere. Why, he had never seen Gypsy like this before! She'd always been easy and friendly with everyone. It just wasn't like her to turn crabby all of a sudden, for no good reason. Something of this he said, in clumsy male fashion.

Gypsy smiled. "I like that. No good reason." Then Gypsy had relented. Her natural amiability had come to the surface. She had said, equably:

Anne Morano, the Italian woman who has attracted the interest of world scientists by emanations of light from her body. Photo shows her arriving in Rome for a scientific examination.

"Never mind, darling. I'll be sweet to her. I'll be nice. I promise." Tom had been satisfied. He had been more than that, delighted. And now Gypsy was slowly congealing again, in Vera's presence, in spite of all her good resolutions.

"If she'd stop calling him 'Tommy' I could bear it," Gypsy thought. "If she'd stop fluttering her hands about him, touching his arm." But no, Vera was of that great army of coquettes. She must be forever bridling, smiling, cooling at a man. With her in the room Gypsy simply did not exist. She monopolized attention. She needed a footstool. She needed a light. She—might she just have one teeny-weeny sip of water?

Gypsy said, with auspicious brightness, that Tom mustn't get up, she'd get it herself. In the kitchen she ground her teeth and collected her forces. She recognized the fact that she had no weapons against an adversary of this sort unless she selected kindred tactics. She might, for example, go and sit on Tom's knee. . . . that would be quite in the little bride tradition. But oh, how revolting!

"I won't do it," said Gypsy. She couldn't help smiling to herself at the picture. She ran the water furiously and went to the refrigerator for ice cubes.

"Horrid creature!" She jammed at the ice compartment as though ramming hot irons down Vera's spine.

"What on earth are you doing?" It was Tom in the doorway, a slightly mystified and ever so slightly bored Tom. Gypsy, recognizing his expression, flung to her very toes with delight.

"Nothing at all. Just getting ice."

He took her by the shoulders. He marched her to the door.

"Look here, you run back there and talk to Vera. I'll do the dirty work." He kissed the back of her neck. "You little devil, you!"

Gypsy gave him a gamin grin. "O. K., boss."

She went back and talked to Vera, sedately and politely. Vera turned off charm when the male left the scene. Gypsy had known she was that sort of girl. Vera went into the bedroom to freshen her makeup. When Tom appeared, with the belated water and three tall frosted glasses, Vera said that really, she must go. A boy from Princeton—a heavy date—was stopping by at her cousin's house at eleven. She really must dash. They would go night-clubbing, probably.

"She's making that up," said Gypsy, to herself, demure in her triumph. "She found she wasn't getting anywhere with Tom and so she's leaving."

But would Tommy get her a taxi? That was what Vera wanted to know. It was just around the corner, really, but she was afraid to be out alone in New York. Tom's obvious cue, at this moment, was to walk "around the corner" (a matter of some five blocks) with her. He didn't. He rang the door-bell on the house-phone and asked him to have a taxi round in fifteen minutes. He and Gypsy saw Vera to the elevator, and Tom's arm was around Gypsy's slender waist.

"Well!" He drew out a big, fine handkerchief, mopping his brow in the fashion of movie comedians, after negotiating a difficult job. "I don't believe you like your old friends," Gypsy said, picking up a laden ashtray. "I think you were glad she left."

"Gosh, what gets into females, anyhow?" Tom demanded. "She seemed all right at noontime, good fun. To-night she was entirely different, she was putting on an act. Why did you run out on me? I gave you all the signals."

"I wanted to give her a chance to be charming," said Gypsy, suppressing a smile. "I seemed to cramp her style. She was probably just the same at noon, but you didn't notice it. Just now you were seeing her through my eyes."

"Is that the way?" Tom registered amazement. "Wonderful thing, marriage!"

"Oh, Tom, I do love you!" Gypsy exploded into a fit of helpless laughter, burrowing into his gray tweed collar like a kitten. With Vera gone, everything was all right again. They could thump the upholstery of the day bed, empty the trays of lip-stick stained cigarette ends, and pretend she had never been there.

Sundays were the best, Gypsy found. During the week, the young Weavers parted in rather a flurry. In the evenings, people usually dropped in, or they read books from the lending library, or went to a picture show. Sunday was all theirs, free and golden and generous. Occasionally they went out to Blue Hills on Saturday night, to waken late in the big, shabby guest room, with the red maple outside. They would have a late breakfast, with Clyde generous in the matter of hot cakes and syrup. Mrs. Morell seemed brighter on these occasions, and Gypsy's father would beam contentedly at them from behind his glasses.

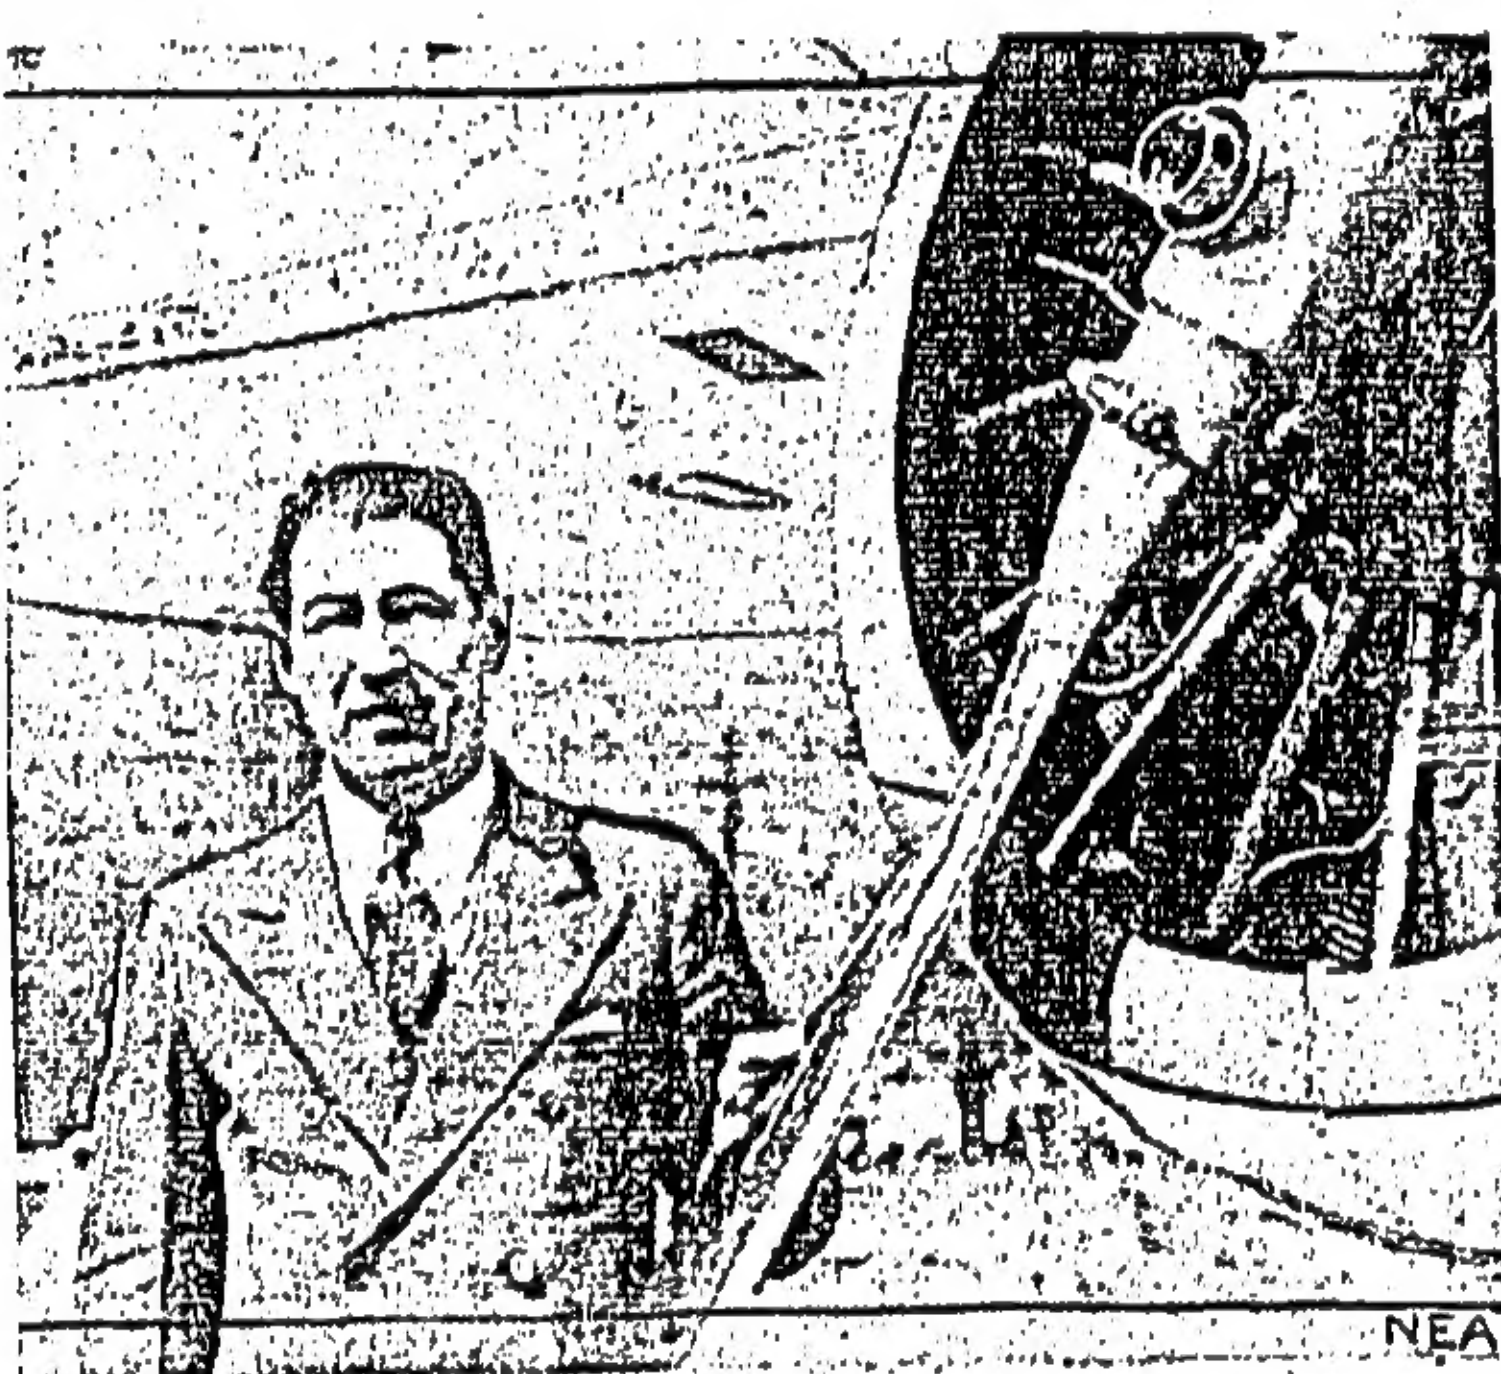

"What's the programme to-day, kids?"

"I don't know," Gypsy would say. "What's planned, mother?"

"Nothing but a 1 o'clock dinner," that lady would reply, contentedly. "You drive me to church; father, and after that I'd like to stop at the cemetery. It's Mother's anniversary, you know. Just you and Tom do as you please, dear. You work hard all week. If you want to be here for dinner, we'd love it. But if you'd rather picnic, why Clyde will fix a basket for you."

"Oh, Tom, I do love you!" Gypsy exploded into a fit of helpless laughter, burrowing into his gray tweed collar like a kitten. With Vera gone, everything was all right

So, occasionally they picnicked, just the two of them, on a high hill, with the bright blue skies of late October overhead. It was fun—it was glorious fun. Later they would tool the little car back to Blue Hills, and have tea with the family in the early dusk. There would be a roaring open fire. Some of Gypsy's friends might drop in, to exclaim over Clyde's chocolate cake. The twins would squabble over their bicycles. And some hours later, tired and utterly content, they would say goodbye and be driven down to the station by Harvey Morell.

"Be out next week, Gyp?" "I think so, Dad. Unless Tom has to work. It's been such fun. You're too good to us."

"Don't be silly." He would kiss her and shake Tom's hand, and watch until they climbed aboard. Then he would sigh and shake his shoulders and drive away. Seemed funny to have Gypsy old enough to be married, living in the city. Well, that was life. They grew up and got married. You wanted them to, of course, but—well—it was funny, anyhow.

One Sunday morning, early in November, Gypsy's mother tossed over to her the page containing the society column of the newspaper.

"I see Lila's back."

"Oh, really?" Gypsy scanned the item with interest. Mr. and Mrs. Derek Van Reuter Bliss had returned from a honeymoon abroad, said the society editor, and would be at home after the fifteenth in a duplex at 333 East—Street.

"Why, that's only two blocks away from us," Gypsy said, surprised.

"I suppose you will be seeing her quite a lot," surmised Mrs. Morell, gently.

It wouldn't do to tell Mums, Gypsy thought, that while she and Lila lived only two blocks apart geographically, the social gap was wider. It wasn't too likely that their circles would touch.

But she was wrong about that, as she was later to learn.

WHITHER BRITAIN?

those countries, in the Empire and elsewhere, which have been and will be our best customers. In other words, mere high protection for agriculture without recognition will hurt our export industries far more than industrial protection.

In the third place, we cannot make ourselves self-sufficient. Whatever happens, we shall have to import food. Even if our food production were doubled we should still be dependent upon imports.

Everybody wants to see a prosperous farming industry—just as everybody wants to see a prosperous cotton industry—and most people would be willing to assist agriculture towards prosperity. But those who are now leading the farmers to believe that they have a prior claim to guaranteed prosperity are misleading them.

UNIFIED PURE FOOD CONTROL.

DR. LI SHU-FAN MOVES FOR SOLE LICENSING AUTHORITY

At the regular fortnightly meeting of the Sanitary Board to-morrow afternoon, Dr. Li Shu-fan, pursuant to notice, will move:

(a) That it is the opinion of this Board that, in the interest of public health and with the view to the prevention of disease, it is desirable:

(i) that restaurants, eating stalls, stalls for the sale of cooked food, premises for the sale of cooked meat and cooked meat hawkers, should be licensed by a sole Licensing Authority, but as regards restaurants, such licence should be in addition to any Liquors Licence prescribed by law.

(ii) that for the purpose of unified control and proper sanitary supervision, such sole Licensing Authority should be the Sanitary Board.

(iii) that the Sanitary Board should have power to make by-laws for the proper sanitary regulation of all eating and cooked food stalls, cooked meat premises and cooked meat hawkers, and in particular for the safeguarding from dust and insects of all such cooked food; for the cleanliness and safeguarding from dust and insects of all utensils used by the sellers of such food; and for the wrapping in a satisfactory manner so as to be free from contamination and to protect from dust and insects of all articles purchased before delivery to the customers, and

(b) That a copy of this motion be forwarded to the Government with the request that the necessary legislation be passed in order to give effect to this motion.

Other business will be of a routine nature, including consideration of an application for an eating house licence and for the registration of two dairies, at Wanchai and Kowloon respectively.

AIR MAIL CRASH

ANOTHER FRENCH PLANE COMES DOWN

London, May 20.

The second accident within a week, involving an Air France liner occurred today at Croydon. The French air liner was nearly over the aerodrome when its engine failed and it was forced to land in a field. It crashed into a fence. The undercarriage was wrenched off and three propellers bent.

All of the passengers aboard the liner were thrown in a heap by the crash, but only one woman passenger was injured.—Reuter.

On May 8 an Air France liner left Le Bourget with three passengers aboard and a crew of three. She was talking to Croydon while crossing the French coast at 12.10 p.m. when the signals suddenly ceased. Immediately planes were sent in search in the heavy fog but were unable to locate the air liner. It is presumed that she came down in the Channel and all on board perished.

Reports that the wreck had been found have not been confirmed.

The pennant is blue with a yellow device consisting of the Royal Crown over a post horn. The words, "Royal Air Mail" in white surround the device.

WHAT THE SMALLER
POWERS THINK

An aspect of the Disarmament Conference which is apt to be overlooked is that most of the countries represented on it have for a very lengthy period been kicking their heels, waiting for the Great Powers to reach a decision. Two years or more ago, the Conference opened with no fewer than sixty-six States taking part in the discussions. For many months past, it has been difficult to recollect that fact. What, it may be asked, do some of the smaller nations think on the subject? Half a dozen of them—Denmark, Spain, Norway, Sweden and Switzerland—recently presented a joint memorandum to the Conference, Holland being in general agreement with their views. In the opinion of this group, there are only two alternatives before the Conference. One is a real reduction on the part of the heavily-armed Powers, side by side with moderate re-armament on the part of Germany. The other is limitation at present levels for the former, and heavier re-armament for Germany. Unhesitatingly, the small States plump for the former course of action. While recognising the merits of the British plan, they feel that its proposals do not in some respects go far enough, more particularly with regard to guarantees for the execution of the suggested Convention. It may be recalled that Signor Mussolini, when launching his suggestions for reforming the League of Nations, endeavoured to convey the impression that the interference of the smaller countries had been responsible for the interminable delays and hesitations. Such an assumption is hardly warranted by the facts. The States in the second and third ranks have shown time and again that they are ready to fall in with any reasonable scheme of all-round disarmament. They, in common with others, have realised that the fundamental problem remains unaltered—reconciliation of the French and German viewpoints. The small powers are anxious to see the problem solved, for the simple reason that lower levels of armament all round will be the best guarantee of their own security. It is therefore clear that if the Conference breaks down, the smaller States, no less than the larger, will have their anxieties immeasurably increased. The pity is that with such a widespread desire for a satisfactory adjustment of the situation there should be the possibility of all the efforts of the past two years coming practically to naught.

NOTES OF THE DAY

FOREIGN POLICY CONTRASTS

The foreign affairs debate in the House of Commons on Saturday strikingly revealed the contrasts in the attitudes of Britain's leaders. A statesmanlike speech by Mr. Stanley Baldwin established readiness to accept a doctrine which will be readily endorsed—the employment of joint military sanctions against any nation that commits a breach of any convention prohibiting the aerial bombardment of civilians. Sir John Simon, on the other hand, made a highly embarrassing statement, arguing that the signatories of the Nine-Power Treaty had agreed to respect the integrity of China but had not undertaken to preserve it. Sir John Simon is deliberately splitting hairs and quibbling over a word. But he will still find other words to deny the implications if the statement encourages Japan to further "enterprises" in China.

GUARANTEES OR NOT?

The layman, if not the legal purist, would interpret the Nine-Power Treaty as a guarantee of China's integrity, particularly if any encroachment was perpetrated by one of the signatories. American observers, of course, seize upon the statement and complain that the attitude leaves the United States up in the air unable to do anything if Japan flouts the Treaty. This is more ballyhoo. It is well known that the League would have been ready for stronger action over the Manchuria episode had they had any sort of assurance of American cooperation in any action that might have been decided upon. The fact is that neither Britain nor the United States are at present willing to accept any genuine international responsibilities. It is now rumoured that Cabinet dissension has led to the dropping of the plan to submit an air convention to the Disarmament Convention.

U.S. POLICY

Meanwhile, the arms embargo proposal sent to Congress by President Roosevelt, has revived discussion of sanctions in the Senate. It would be futile to expect any change of attitude, which might influence the British Foreign Secretary. For it is his chief fear, and he may have good cause, that if Britain should join in any attempt to coerce a treaty violator, she would invite entanglement with the United States which is still liable to claim old-fashioned neutral rights to trade with the pariah state. If history is any guide, the result might be to align the United States on the side of the outcast, not for any love of it, but in defence of its own isolationist status.

DAVIS STATEMENT

Admittedly, Mr. Norman Davis promised that in the event of a threat to peace, the United States would, if she saw justification for sanctions, refrain from action likely to defeat collective efforts against an aggressor. But the rise of the Hitler movement, giving reason to apprehend war, has caused the Americans to recede from that position, marked by their precipitate withdrawal from the disarmament conversations. The President's policy still commits the United States to a passive belligerency in certain conditions, but the Senate takes action which indicates that in a crisis it would insist upon complete neutrality, reducing the President's policy to a nebulous statement, to be repudiated when the occasion came to vindicate it.

SOBERING THOUGHT

The thought is sobering. Such action by the United States would be the final retreat from that organisation of peace which involves collective responsibility for it. All the work done by President Hoover and Mr. Stimson would be undone. And although it is difficult to envisage a great Power washing its hands so completely of the world's troubles, it is that possibility, so inherent in Senate policy as distinct from Administration policy, that prevents the most influential of European Powers in reaching an agreement on disarmament and which causes Sir John Simon to seek to evade the full responsibility even of undertakings already given Britain's signature. For that is how his no-guarantee interpretation of the Nine-Power Treaty will be regarded.

MR. BALDWIN'S APOLOGY

Mr. Baldwin's voice is as one crying in the wilderness. He sees the obstacles just as clearly as he sees the need for preparedness. Let us remember, he urges, that, after all, concentrated efforts after peace had seldom been made, if at all, in the world until the post-war years, and it is difficult to break an ingrained human habit in one decade. This may be taken as an apology for both the British and American foreign policies.

WHITHER BRITAIN?

By GEOFFREY CROWTHER

THE debate in the House of Commons on the working of the agricultural marketing schemes was hardly reassuring to those who wonder where the policy of organising and protecting the farmer is going to lead. The Government spokesmen as well as the members who spoke for the farmers, seemed to be solely concerned with distributing the booty—in the shape of higher prices—which is resulting from the operation of the schemes.

With reference to the milk scheme, for example, there were complaints that the Devon farmer was getting more than the Sussex farmer, and that the retailer was getting more than either; but none of the Conservative speakers gave more than a passing reference to the consumer of milk or to the interest of the community as a whole.

I should perhaps make one exception. Sir Joseph Lamb maintained that restriction of food imports benefited others than the farmers. He believed "that very few people have realised the advantage that an increased production of agricultural products in this country represents to other industries, by relieving them of the responsibility of paying in exports for agricultural products which are imported into this country."

This is a monumental discovery. I should greatly enjoy hearing, say, a Lancashire cotton operative express his gratitude to Sir Joseph Lamb for being "relieved of the responsibility" of selling his goods abroad. He would probably suggest that Sir Joseph Lamb might also relieve him of the responsibility of clothing and feeding his wife and children.

Nevertheless, the national aspect of the Government's agricultural policy is one which needs the most serious consideration. The programme of setting up Marketing Boards and of limiting imports of foodstuffs from abroad has been pushed forward with remarkable energy by the present Minister of Agriculture. Nobody has any objection to Mr. Elliot's energy. On the contrary, it is a very refreshing change from the soporific conduct of most Cabinet Ministers.

But there is a real danger that the great majority of people whose interests are affected by Mr. Elliot's schemes—industrialists and town-dwellers—will assume that because the agricultural policy is energetic it is also laudable.

In point of fact, there is a great deal in the policy to which nobody would take serious exception. For example, there is general agreement with the principle that the producers of any one commodity should be organised in a marketing board to dispose of it. Cut-throat competition between farmers has been the curse of the agricultural industry, and since voluntary co-operation has failed, compulsory organisation is essential.

But the present Government has not been content with putting the farmers on a basis of bargaining equality with the skilled business men who buy their products. It has helped to make the marketing boards the instrument of a restrictive monopoly. It has made the farmers believe they can, by some magic, achieve prosperity by Act of Parliament.

Lieut.-Colonel Acland Troyte, who spoke in the debate, is very typical in this respect. "Everyone will agree," he said, "that the producer is entitled to get fair remuneration for his capital, his work, and the risks he takes in the business." Everyone will agree that it would be very nice if the producer could get this fair remuneration, but why should the farmer expect to have it guaranteed to him by the State, when it is far from guaranteed to the industrial capitalist or the industrial working man, or even to the farm labourer?

In many respects the farmers' leaders are crying for the moon. They expect not only higher prices for what they are now producing but also the same higher prices for as much more as they choose to produce. This also can be illustrated from other speeches. Sir Henry Cautley, who opened the debate, was loud in his complaints of the fact that the price for liquid milk had been fixed, by arbitration between the farmers and the dairymen, at what he thought was too low a figure. At the same time he protested against the provisions of the potatoes and hops schemes which attempt to limit the amount produced.

The farmers must make their choice between high prices and unlimited production, for in most cases they cannot have both. The price for milk has been lowered, precisely because the farmers are producing more than public can buy at the present price. One subsidy has already been promised to the Milk Board to avoid the necessity of limiting production or lowering prices. The outcry against the arbitrators' decision is so strong that nobody will be surprised if another subsidy is provided at the taxpayer's expense.

In the case of a commodity such as liquid milk, where the possibility of expanding British production by limiting imports is very restricted, there is only one way in which the farmer can earn a larger income and also increase his production. That is by increasing his efficiency and lowering his costs.

Increase of efficiency should be the first and greatest task of the Marketing Boards. But since the Boards have been allowed to become virtually committees of the National Farmers' Union, they are far more likely to devote their attention to keeping prices up than to seeking means of bringing them down.

But what of the commodities, such as wheat and, to a lesser extent, bacon and meat, where the British farmer can get both higher prices and bigger production by limiting imports? Is it not desirable to expand our production of food at home? It may be admitted at once that a strong case can be made out for restricting imports which are made artificially cheap by subsidies from foreign Governments, whether they be sugar from Czechoslovakia or butter from New Zealand.

But a policy of stimulating home production of food by means of artificially created "scarcity prices" has many disadvantages. In the first place, it means making food dearer than it need be and disregarding the fact that large sections of the population already get too little to eat.

In the second place, it means restricting imports from precisely

The Very Idea!

ETHEREAL
ACQUAINTANCES

By George

WE have just read in a Home paper that the shortage of human stories has led to reporters being instructed to pick out names from the telephone book at random and say "How's things with you?"

At Home this might work, so we thought we could try it on the local clientele and at least get an idea for our daily column.

Accordingly we waited till everybody was at home and safely in the middle of their dinners before we picked up the phone.

"Hallo, hallo!"

The first number that came into our hand was 90.

Enquiries were very rushed that evening and did not feel like recommending a number for us to ring up. Anyway what did we think they were anyway?

We told them but they had already rung off.

The idea apparently was not to think of a number but to open the book and drop your finger against a name.

We turned over the leaves casually and dropped a dirty digit with our eyes shut.

It wasn't until we heard the editor's voice at the other end that we thought of looking at the name.

"How's things with you?" we faltered.

"What's that?" bawled the Great I Am.

"Wrong number!" we retorted and wiped a sweating brow with the receiver.

Things were not going too well and after plunking our finger on a police station and the Chief Justice's number we decided to try the Smiths.

"Is that Mr. Smith?" we asked after looking up to make sure there was no doubt.

"Yes, yes," was the reply.

"How's things with you?" we asked seriously.

"The last message from the hospital was encouraging, old boy. The wife is doing well but I'm afraid it's going to be another daughter. But anyway—say, who is that speaking?"

"Wrong number!" we whispered hoarsely, and again wiped the sweat off the receiver with our brow.

It was some moments before we dared start on the Robinsons.

After three unsuccessful attempts we finally got through to G. S. Robinson.

"Were you engaged?" we began pleasantly.

"Who wants to know?" said G. S. aggressively.

"Oh, ceerrrr nobody."

"Well don't waste my time, you fool!"

G. S. cut off with a crack which nearly burst our ear valve.

As we raised the fateful finger over the telephone book again, the telephone rang.

"Hallo!" said the girl. "Is that you, George? How's things with you?"

We settled down in our chair for a pleasant quarter of an hour.

"Who wants to know?" we began aggressively.

COW'S AMAZING PLEA.

The lady who wrote to an Editor the other day sentimentally quoting that curious rubbish by Walt Whitman beginning:

"I think I could turn and live with the animals, they are so placid and self-contained"

"I stand and look at them long and long" (etc.)

is possibly not acquainted with the reply to this effusion by an old brown cow living (I think) in Massachusetts. The old cow, using Mr. Walt Whitman's own easy metre, said mildly:

"I don't think I want Mr. Whitman to live with us, he is so noisy and such a bore."

"I stand and look at him long and long, and he gives me a pain in the hocks."

"I don't like his verse, I don't like his whiskers, and, judging by some of his poems, the less said about certain of his tendencies the better."

"Ho yawns far too much, and knows far too little."

"Listen, if Mr. Walt Whitman is a poet my name is Harriet Beecher Stowe."

"I don't want to be hard on Mr. Whitman. Heaven forbid I just don't want him to live with me."

Which is the best retort of its kind since the skylark turned on Shelley.

"Now, I'm going to show you gentlemen just how I want this done."

A NEW DOG POLICY?

DIRECTED AGAINST MOTORISTS

THIS BOUNDARY BUSINESS

Sir,—In your issue of Friday, reporting a dog summons, it was mentioned inter alia, that notices have been put on the Tai Po and Castle Peak roads indicating the division between New Kowloon and the rest of the New Territories.

It is typical of the manner in which things are done in this Colony, that it has been left to a subordinate Police official to make this information public in Court, in the midst of a case—no proper notification by a responsible Department, e.g. the Land Office or perhaps the P.W.D.

The police, it would appear, have defined the boundary. On what grounds? Has there been a survey? Are there any maps giving details, apart from the outline map in the Land Office, which is useless? Or has boundary on the motor road been determined by the ipsi dixit of the police or the P.W.D.?

NEW POLICY?

It would appear that the "new policy" with regard to dogs is to be put into force. At the risk of wearisome repetition, I would once again point out that in the Orders of March 1, published for information, the I.G.P. specifically referred to the prohibition of the importation of dogs into Kowloon, and Kowloon "in the legal official sense is territory to the south of Boundary Street."

Now, Sir, Mr. Wolfe is a very senior and experienced official and moreover, responsible for the execution of these Regulations. It is therefore, only reasonable, and fair to him, to assume that his orders were carefully thought out and that in fact he meant what he said.

This attitude is now reversed, but I would again mention that the intention of the Police appears to be directed against one section of the public only—motorists—and at that, against the very people whose dogs are the least likely to come into contact with those living in the New Territories, and possibly infected.

WHAT OF THE VILLAGES?

Apparently no action is contemplated against people who take their dogs for walks in the Kowloon hills or against farmers, etc., who might bring their dogs into town via the hill paths for the very good reason that nobody knows where the boundary is. And in any case, as I have already pointed out, there are villages well within the boundary where dogs are unlicensed and unmuzzled, and are free to run as they desire.

Of course, it might be argued that it would be anti-social for anyone to walk their dogs where there is a risk of infection. But are not the police aiding in the creation of such an attitude, by forbidding the only healthy means of getting dogs out in the air during the hot weather?

TERPSICHOEANS IN COMPETITION

George White's Scandals Event At Hotel

The first qualifying heat in the dancing competition organised in connection with the George White's Scandals, held at the Roof Garden of the Hongkong Hotel yesterday, was, despite the heat, well attended and a big success.

Ten couples took the floor for the competition, and danced to the tunes of the Scandals, discoursed by the Revellers band, who were attractively attired for the occasion.

The winners were: 1. Mr. Thomas Lee and partner; 2. Mr. Lam Ho-wah and Miss C. Perpetuo; 3. Mr. E. N. Souza and Miss Chan Kitarina. These three couples will compete in the finals on Saturday afternoon next.

Similar qualifying competitions for the finals will take place every afternoon this week at the Hongkong Hotel, including to-day.

THE PRINCE AND STATISTICS

KEY TO TRUTHS DRY AND UNPALATABLE

The Prince of Wales, as honorary president of the Royal Statistical Society, inaugurated the society's centenary meeting at University College, London, and welcomed leading statisticians from all parts of the world.

He recalled that his grandfather, the Prince Consort, himself an accomplished statistician, had defended statisticians against the charge of being "incredibly dull" before the first international congress of the kind to be held in London.

"In 1934," the Prince said, "we need not defend statisticians against that charge. Important truths are extremely unpalatable. I know of no more important truths than the deductions from social experience of those lessons by which the community should profit."

LIVING QUESTIONS.

"I am glad to know," he added, "that throughout its long career the Royal Statistical Society has always occupied itself with the living questions of the day."

"I am confident that this distinguished audience will enlarge still further the bounds of statistical knowledge and, by making accessible to the statesman, the administrator, and the philanthropist the teaching of collective experience, will play their part in promoting the happiness of mankind."

A discussion on the "Methods used in different countries for estimating national income," was opened by Sir Josiah Stamp, who criticised the attempt made by some American statisticians to include in such estimates changes in market values.

Many members of the International Statistical Institute, which celebrates its jubilee this year, were present as guests.

YEAR'S COAL PROFIT OF 3D. A TON

LOSSES IN HALF AREA OF PRODUCTION

The proceeds of the sale of coal last year—according to a return by the Mines Department—amounted to $125,255,944. The net costs of getting the coal were $123,079,404, leaving only 2.33d., or less than 3d., a ton average profit.

Nevertheless, half the coalfields incurred a loss. In Scotland, Northumberland, Durham, South Wales, and Monmouth there were losses.

The gross output for the year was 200,163,224 tons. Of this 11,192,588 tons were used by the mines themselves, 4,075,841 tons were "miners' coal," and the rest, 184,894,795, was the tonnage "disposable commercially."

Of this total 52,525,007 tons were shipped during the year for export and foreign bunkers.

The number of persons employed was 737,326, and the earnings per man shift averaged 9s. 1.64d.

PRESS PUBLICITY DAYS

POSTMASTER-GENERAL'S PROOF

Sir Kingsley Wood, the Postmaster-General, speaking at a dinner of the Telephone Development Association in London, said that the year 1933-34 was a record year for new telephone business.

Advertising in the national Press and in leading provincial newspapers had paid them over and over again. In his estimates this year would be found the largest provision for publicity that had ever been made in the history of the Post Office.

To-day, by lifting a receiver a British subscriber could speak to people in India, the United States, South America, Australia, and "hope Japan by the end of the year."

The first practice was grouping, the second application, the third a "running-man" target and the fourth a "bobbing man" target. Six rounds were allowed at each practice, the targets being a distance of ten yards away.

AUSTRALIAN TOUR.

Dismissal Of Cricketers For Small Score.

London, May 20. The Australian cricket tourists, playing against Oxford University, failed to produce the form that characterised their previous matches and at the close of their innings they had only scored 319 runs. L. Darling, one of the newcomers to Test cricket, rattled up another century for the tourists, this being his first in England. He scored exactly 100 before being dismissed. W. H. Ponsford, who recently revealed phenomenal form, knocked up 75 runs. Tindall had five wickets for 34 runs. At the close of play Oxford had lost two of their wickets with only five runs on the board.—Reuter.

CORRESPONDENCE

Careless Pedestrians

To the Editor.
Hongkong Telegraph.

Sir,—After so much advertising and effort on the part of the Police on their "Safety First" campaign, it is clearly evident that the local pedestrians are still as indifferent of road dangers as they were before.

While motoring along Queen's Road, East, last night, I had to stop my car on several occasions to avoid serious accidents. On one occasion, a group of Chinese (shop folks presumably) were walking arm-in-arm and crossing the road blissfully disregarding, or foolishly ignorant of the fact that they have caused a stream of traffic to halt abruptly. On another occasion, a number of Chinese was seen walking right in the middle of Queen's Road, opposite China Building (in full view of a traffic cop) when they could have made use of the pavement.

It is obvious that careless and indifferent pedestrians are not only a source of danger to themselves but also a source of danger to motorists. As there are so many regulations enforced to safeguard pedestrians, there should also be regulations to stop pedestrians from wanton carelessness thereby jeopardising the safety of motorists.

Couldn't the services of our Traffic Cops be utilized in preventing some of these crazy pedestrians from daydreaming on the roads?

If the police would only arrest and convict some of these pests, there would be less road accidents, and the heavy amount that has gone towards advertising the "Safety-first" campaign need not again be required.

While on this subject, it would not be out of place to mention that some of our European drivers seem to have little or no sense of road courtesy. I refer specially to the inconsiderate habit of leaving their lights wide open while passing other cars. It is obvious that the full glare of the headlights causes much annoyance, if not danger, and the disregard to others shown in this connection is simply discourteous. ALEXA.

WAR ON CANCER.

FURTHER HELP FOR CHARITY CONCERT

"Cancer—this dread disease in possibly its worst form (cancer of the brain)—is treated at the National Hospital for Diseases of the Nervous System, Queen's Square, W.C., where probably every case of tumour upon which surgeons operate is cancerous in some degree. With more money more lives could be saved." (an extract from the Morning Post, April 12.)

Research work in cancer is now at its most promising and hopeful stage, and with funds to push on there is great hope, after years of sacrifice of the lives of the world's most promising surgeons, of conquering humanity's greatest scourge.

In Hongkong and the New Territories cancer in all forms takes its toll of human life, so the Colony's contribution to the Research Fund will help correct local conditions.

The concert at King's College on Saturday, May 26, is in aid of the above fund. All expenses will be met by the St. John Ambulance Brigade as their contribution.

In addition to the excellent programme which has already been announced Mr. Lum Sut-mui, former associate of China's foremost actors, Mei Lan-fan and Sui Yeung-yuet, has promised to perform in costume the historical dance of Queen Yu Ki.

The story goes that upon the defeat of the Ruler Fah Wang, his wife danced to distract him in his despair, afterwards committing suicide rather than be taken a prisoner by the enemy.

London, May 19.

The Police stated that the King of Siam has declined to have anything to do with the matter; and as the police were not in a position to offer any further evidence, the Magistrate ordered the documents to be returned to the King.

NEAR RIOT AT BOXING CONTESTS

CROWDS 800 JUDGES' VERDICT AGAINST FILIPINO

LATEST RESULTS: PHILIPPINES DO WELL AT TENNIS

Manila, May 19. Last night the Constabulary had to be called out to quell a near-riot in the baseball stadium where the boxing championships were being held, following the decision of the referee and two judges in the welter-weight fight between Carlos Padilla, the Filipino World Olympic boxer, and Sigami Saito (Japan).

The officials awarded the fight to the Filipino boxer, but the bores and masses of 6,000 Japanese spectators rocked the stadium for more than half an hour.

The United Press gave Saito all three of the rounds.

It is understood that the Japanese are protesting to the Contest Committee.

In other three round bouts the results were:

Felipe Nunag (Philippines) beat Chiyotaka Nakano (Japan) in the flyweight class.

Shoko Kin (Japan) beat Solomon Adornado (Philippines) in the bantamweight class.

Avolino Cunanan (Philippines) beat Ryushin Boku (Japan) in the featherweight class.—United Press.

LESSON SERMON.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST,
SCIENTIST, HONGKONG

"Mortals and Immortals" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, yesterday.

The Golden Text was: "As we have borne the image of the earthy, we shall also bear the image of the heavenly" (1 Corinthians 15:49).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "For this corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality. So when this corruptible shall have put on incorruption, and this mortal shall have put on immortality, then shall be brought to pass the saying that is written, Death is swallowed up in victory. O death, where is thy sting? O grave, where is thy victory? The sting of death is sin; and the strength of sin is the law. But thanks be to God, which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ" (1 Cor. 15:53-57).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "By putting 'off the old man with his deeds', mortals 'put on immortality.' We cannot fathom the nature and quality of God's creation by diving into the shallows of mortal belief. We must reverse our feeble flutterings—our efforts to find life and truth in matter—and rise above the testimony of the material senses; above the mortal to the immortal idea of God. These clearer, higher views inspire the God-like man to reach the absolute centre and circumference of his being" (p.262).

NETHERLANDS FAIR.

ANNUAL EVENT ATTRACTS INCREASED ATTENTION

The 30th Royal Netherlands Industries Fair was held at Utrecht from March 13 until March 22.

The expected revival in economic conditions caused a considerable increase in the number of exhibitors, which amounted to 1,725 (against 1,415 last year), while 14 nationalities were represented.

France, Belgium, Switzerland, Austria and Poland were represented by national sections. On the occasion of the visit of a great number of French authorities and business men to the fair, a "French Day" was held, while a "Swiss Day" was held during the visit of a number of Swiss manufacturers.

Italy and Germany were represented by an official enquiry-office, while South Africa once more participated with her own exhibit of South African produce. The Netherlands Colonies were likewise present, with an interesting exhibit from the Commercial Museum of the Colonial Institute.

The number of visitors to the Spring Fair of 1934 was beyond all expectation. On some days the increase—compared to the figures of the previous Spring Fair—amounted to 33 per cent.; over the nine days of the Fair the increase was 25 per cent. Upon the whole the orders, taken one by one, were not large, but the great multitude of them made up for the disappointment felt in this respect.

Participants in articles directly destined for consumption: food-stuffs, luxuries, household articles, etc., generally did good business. Great satisfaction was felt in the Building materials group and in the Metal Wares and Machinery groups. In textiles and drapery goods the turn-over was less satisfactory.

H.R.H. Princess Juliana paid a long visit on one of the first days and a number of foreign Ministers showed their interest by attending the Fair.

BULGARIAN COUP

ESTABLISHMENT OF DICTATORSHIP

Belgrade, May 19. A serious disturbance is believed to have broken out in Bulgaria. It is reported that the Army is blockading Sofia. All telephonic and telegraphic communications are interrupted.—Reuter.

Petition to King.

Sofia, May 19. Eighty high army officers have petitioned to King Boris to appoint a non-party Government after a secret meeting following the resignation of the Government.

Consequently, a Government National Union has been formed by the Prime Minister, M. Gheorghieff, the former Minister of Railways, assisted by General Midloff, vice-President of the Union of Officers.—Reuter.

Government Manifesto.

Berlin, May 19. It is reported here that the formation of a new government in Bulgaria amounts to a virtual dictatorship.

It is stated that the Government has issued a manifesto declaring that it aims at guaranteeing peace and contentment, and doing everything possible to surmount the serious economic and social crisis.—Reuter.

Capital An Armed Camp

London, May 20.

Sofia is still dumb, as far as direct communication with London is concerned.

Neighbouring capitals, however, report that the country's new government is a virtual dictatorship by King Boris, under the compulsion of the powerful National Non-Party Association, which is led by M. Gheorghieff, one time Minister of Commerce.

It is believed that the King was unaware of the Party's intentions until the Royal Palace was surrounded by troops. Even then, Boris demurred before signing the decree for the dissolution of Parliament.

Military operations began at 2 a.m. All public buildings being occupied by the military, and strong forces of artillery and machine gun detachments concentrated at all strategic points around the city.

Workers setting out for business were turned back, being informed that no shops or offices would be open.

Soon the streets were entirely deserted except for patrols of soldiers with fixed bayonets.

Several hundred leading Communists and Left Wing politicians have been imprisoned.—Reuter.

Pan-Slavonic Move

Sofia, May 20.

Important international developments may follow the coup d'etat.

The new Government is expected to make a vital change in Bulgaria's foreign policy and secure an alliance with Yugoslavia, with which country she will pursue a Pan-Slavonic policy.

It is reported that M. Mihailoff, the Macedonian leader, and a number of his supporters, have been arrested. If this is true, it will facilitate the alliance with Yugoslavia.

The city was again blockaded by troops last night. All traffic was prohibited and pedestrians were turned back. Military Sentries, who at times adopted a truculent attitude, were posted at all the public buildings.

Reuter's correspondent in the city was held up by a sentry for over an hour at the Post Office and had to appeal to the Press Bureau before he was able to send off a censored telegram. The newspapers report that the Government has dissolved Parliament and has decided to substitute a Chamber composed of 100 Deputies, 75 of which are to be nominated by the Government and 25 by whichever corporations the old political parties and party newspapers. Only six independent journals have been allowed to appear.

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

Paramount's "Search for Beauty," for which the studio staged an international contest embracing every English-speaking country in the world to find fifteen most perfect men and fifteen most perfect women, is now at the King's Theatre. The thirty winners have been given parts in the picture. The principal players include Larry "Buster" Crabbe, Ida Lupino, Robert Armstrong, James Gleason, Reginald Kenna and Toby Wing. The story of the picture was based on a play by Schuyler E. Grey and Paul R. Milton. The screen play was written by Frank Butler and Claude Binyon. Erle Kenton directed. The original story was written by David Boehm and Maurice Watkins. It chronicles the amusing misadventures of two scheming crooks, just released from prison who immediately open their eyes for further "deals." They come upon defunct health farm and magazine. They contact a couple of Olympic champions and by cloaking their shady business with promises they secure the services of the athletes to edit the periodical. Acting as front for the crooks, the two young people, innocent of their true activities, get into some amusing complications. But, with love as their prompter, they turn the tables on the crook and bring the health-farm to a successful conclusion.

"Fashions of 1934"

A fan dance to surpass all fan dances—that was the theory on which Busby Berkeley worked in directing the musical and dance numbers of "Fashions of 1934," the first National comedy romance which is showing at the Queen's Theatre with William Powell in the stellar role. Two hundred girls take part in a fan dance number which rejuvenates the fan for ostrich feathers. Four hundred fans, each containing fifteen plumes, are used for the dance. Careful rehearsal, to avoid any question of censorship, was necessary in preparing the dance, over eight weeks being used for rehearsal alone. In addition to the fan dance, a mammoth style show with the latest creations of the modists' art will be seen in the picture, which is, however, primarily a comedy romance and not a musical. Betty Davis heads the supporting cast, which contains such talented players as Frank McHugh, Verree Teasdale, Reginald Owen, Henry O'Neill, Hugh Herbert, Phillip Reed, Gordon Westcott and Dorothy Burgess. William Dieterle directed the picture from the screen play by F. Hugh Herbert and Carl Erickson.

"Sleepers East"

Mona Barrie, one of Australia's leading actresses, has been given a long term contract to appear in Fox pictures. Her first role is in "Sleepers East," to be seen at the King's Theatre on Thursday. Miss Barrie started her career as a dancer but soon changed to the legitimate theatre and became the favourite leading lady of Australia. She has appeared in such plays as "Let Us Be Gay," "Antone Crocus," "Hay Fever," "While Parents Sleep" and others. The actress was en route to London to fill a theatrical engagement and was given a screen test by the Fox casting department in New York just before she was to board ship for England. Miss Barrie's work in the test which was the first she had ever done for the screen, was so enthusiastically received by Fox studio executives in Hollywood that she was immediately signed to a contract. Before coming to New York Miss Barrie visited Hollywood but didn't venture near a studio and it was only by sheer chance that she was induced to appear before the camera. Miss Barrie is 5 feet, 6 inches tall, has brown hair, hazel eyes, and fair complexion. Others in "Sleepers East" are Wynne Gibson, Preston Foster, Harvey Stephens, Roger Imhof, J. Carroll Nash, Howard Lally and Suzanne Karen.

BANK SITE TROUBLE.

WORKMEN DISSATISFIED WITH PAYMENT

Trouble among workmen engaged on the new Hongkong and Shanghai Bank building was brought to light at the Central Police Court on Saturday, when before Mr. E. W. Hamilton three Chiuchow men were charged with assaulting a Chinese foreman. The case was remanded to tomorrow, defendants being allowed bail of $25 each.

Detective-sergeant Fitches said that at present foremen on the Bank site got a lot of Chiuchow and Shanghai men on the promise of payment for each day's work. Complainant promised to pay the three defendants and five others 85 cents a day, but instead paid them only 65 cents, and shared the balance with another foreman. Complainant went to the Wanchai Police Station on Friday night and reported that he had been beaten at his house by the defendants, and also alleged he was robbed of $6.60, but later stated he lost the money in the struggle.

The Magistrate commented on the fact that there was plenty of trouble at the Bank site, and requested that whenever any case

BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

Solution to Previous Contract Problem.

Perhaps one of the most confusing problems confronting the beginner at contract, with a hand such as held by South to-day, when his partner opens the bidding with one diamond (which,
by the way, I feel is a better bid on this hand than one no trump), is whether to support the di-monds or bid a one-over-one. It is a hand without any primary tricks, but it does have good distribution.

Of course, there is this to remember—partner has opened a third hand diamond bid.—He may not have a great deal of strength

However, over his diamond bid,
East has passed and you now at most have a right to assume that your partner has a legitimate diamond opening, due to the lack of primary tricks in your hand.

But let us consider the result of each of your bids. If you bid two diamonds, showing partner normal trump support (that is, four small trump) and two in-cards in your hand (if diamonds are trump), what will his next move be?

He may bid two spades, and then all you can do is to sign the hand off with three diamonds.
If he bids two no trump, you are faced with the problem of whether to bid three diamonds and have your partner go to three no trump.

The simple response is to make a one-over-one bid of one heart.
If you find a fit in your partner's hand, in hearts, game is not at all improbable.

You know that you have a fit in diamonds—in other words, you do not fear to lose more than one diamond trick. If it so happens that your partner's side strength is the ace and jack of hearts, game is more than likely.

So, on a hand of this type, don't support your partner's suit, but

Today's Contract Problem

South is in a contract of six diamonds. West opens the bidding with one diamond, and East covers with the jack. Should the declarer let East hold that trick? If so, why?

With two diamonds,
Over one heart, West is justified in bidding one spade even though he is vulnerable. North, by his bid of one no trump, shows that he has a real hand.

Now South can support his partner's diamond suit and show that his hand was a minimum when he responded with three diamonds over two spades.

Realizing that South's bid of three diamonds is a sign-off, North should properly take the strength off the hand with a bid of four hearts.

There is nothing to the play of the hand. The king of spades is opened and the declarer need lose only two club tricks.

CHICAGO FIRE DISASTER

thousand persons have been rendered homeless.

The blaze devoured the stockyard buildings, pens and cattle leaving a smoking scene of desolation resembling a Flanders battlefield.

The fire is believed to have been started by a cigarette carelessly thrown into a haybarn.

SEEN 100 MILES AWAY.

The outbreak gutted two fire-engines, three stockyards, two halls, two banks, together with a hotel, a brewery, a railway office and the telephone exchange.

The flames were so high that an airman a hundred miles away in Indiana saw them.

The authorities are now confronted with the problem of maintaining the homeless and hungry victims of the disaster.

MILITIA READY.

Thousands of police reserves have been called out and the Governor of Illinois is holding the militia in readiness in case of trouble.

The damage is at present estimated at between $10,000,000 and $25,000,000.

Later, Six blocks of stores and seventy-five workmen's cottages were among the premises engulfed by the flames.

1,500 TREATED.

Fifteen hundred persons have been treated for injuries, including four hundred firemen suffering from bad burns.

The equipment of five fire companies perished in the flames.

Sporadic outbreaks continue and sixty-eight fire engines are still coping with the flames.—Reuter.

STREET COOLIES' FIGHT

CHOPPER USED IN QUARREL

A fight between two street coolies, in which a wood chopper was used on one man's head, had a sequel in the Central Police Court this morning, when Au Sung, 26, was charged with assaulting Au Wai, who is at present in the Government Civil Hospital.

Det-Sgt. McRobble said both men were known to each other, being clanmen. They had a fight in Pottinger Street yesterday afternoon, over a debt, and the defendant struck the complainant over the head with a chopper. The doctor was unable to say whether the skull was fractured, and an X-ray examination is being carried out.

Defendant was remanded for 48 hours.
